Youngsville Council Tables
Action On Packer Truck Bid

By FRANCIS RHODES
Youngsville Borough Council, meeting in an adjourned session Monday night, tabled until their regular meeting next Monday action on the lone bid received for supplying a second-hand packer truck for the borough sanitation department.
The "no action" action followed a recess during which the Purchasing and Solid Waste Disposal committees met to discuss the bid proposal. They recommended no action until the Purchasing Committee could investigate further. The recess was suggested by council president Frank Hendrickson, after councilman Francis Kane, a member of the Purchasing Committee, asked why the committee had not been consulted regarding the proposed purchase. He criticized "having things rushed at us."
The decision to advertise for bids was taken at the last regular meeting on Sept. 13 when borough manager George Probst explained that the borough's package deal lease covering landfill site use and packer truck rental, in effect since the municipal garbage collection service began in Aug. 1970, had ended abruptly with the recent closing of the Waterford landfill site.

No Decisions Seen
In Nixon-Hirohito Talk

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President Nixon was pleased and satisfied with an unprecedented visit from Emperor Hirohito of Japan that produced words of amity but apparently nothing in the way of decisions.
Against a gorgeous background of blue, purple and red northern lights flickering on the horizon, Hirohito became the first Japanese imperial ruler to set foot on foreign soil when he and Empress Nagako stopped for an informal meeting with President and Mrs. Nixon at Elmendorf Air Force Base on the way to a seven-nation tour of Europe.
White House officials said even though there was nothing specific to announce, the 25 minutes of private discussion between the President and the Emperor and brief talks with their key diplomatic advisers, produced something of value.
There was enough of a feeling of good will, they said, to have updated to some extent relations that were strained by Nixon's decision to visit Communist China and to impose a surtax on imports.
"May this historic meeting, the first meeting in history between the Emperor of Japan and the President of the United States, demonstrate for all the years to come a determination of our two great peoples to work together in friendship for peace and prosperity for the Pacific and all people in the world," Nixon told Hirohito.

Four Armed Men Abduct Top Mexican Official

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Four men armed with submachine guns abducted a high government official Monday in what appeared to be a political kidnapping, authorities reported.
The kidnapers later telephoned the home of the victim, civil aviation director Julio Hirschfeld Almada, 52, and demanded $240,000 in exchange for his life, police said. A spokesman for Hirschfeld Almada's family said it was willing to pay the ransom.
Police said a witness to the kidnapping saw a taxi cut in front of Hirschfeld Almada's car as he rode to work, and four men jumped out of the cab with submachine guns.
"They forced the chauffeur out of the car and then pulled Hirschfeld Almada out of the back seat and pushed him into the taxi," the witness was quoted as saying.
Hours later, police said a vehicle, apparently the taxi, was found 15 blocks away from where Hirschfeld lives, in the Lomas de Chapultepec sector. Police said a woman's black wig was found inside the car. In an earlier report, officials had said one of the kidnapers was a woman.
The newspaper Excelsior said it received a telephone call saying the kidnapping was the work of the Revolutionary Action Movement, a leftist guerrilla organization. Excelsior said the caller warned:
"This is only the beginning." Mario Moya Palencia, the Mexican interior minister, said the kidnapping "is intended to frighten the people. We must remain calm."
He said the government will "act with calm, safeguarding the life of the director of the federal airports."
Mexican federal agents have made sporadic arrests of urban guerrillas since March. Nine persons said to be connected with the Revolutionary Action Movement and the People's Armed Command were arrested earlier this month. Two of the nine told newsmen that they had discussed plans to kidnap the U.S. ambassador, former Mexican President Miguel Aleman, and the country's top labor leader.

Warren Council Kills Action Plan

Student Protest Erupts

SAIGON (AP) — Students hurling fire bombs clashed with police in a new flareup of anti government demonstrations Tuesday and witnesses said one student was shot and wounded by police.
The demonstrations followed a new appeal by President Nguyen Van Thieu Monday for voter support in the Oct. 3 elections. He cited his government's success in pacification and its efforts to help disabled war veterans and other war victims.
The youths, a mixture of some 200 university and high school students, threw dozens of gasoline-filled bottle bombs and damaged four vehicles, two of them believed to be American-owned.
The student was shot in the chest by a policeman during the melee. He was taken by police to a hospital. There was no immediate report on his condition.
South Vietnamese police immediately sealed off the area of the demonstration. Even U.S. military police, seeking to check on the U.S. vehicles reportedly fire bombed, were not immediately able to get into the area.
The protest occurred at Phu Nhuan Market, a congested suburban area 1½ miles north of the center of Saigon.
The students carried banners denouncing Thieu's government and his decision to run unopposed in the election.
Shortly after the Phu Nhuan outbreak, another demonstration occurred in Saigon's central market and police used tear gas to break it up.
The two demonstrations occurred as Thieu was to make a scheduled campaign appearance at the Saigon zoo, but he did not appear.
Protests were staged in at least five cities Monday.

FIVE-CAR ACCIDENT; $1,950 DAMAGE

Shown above is the end result of a five-car accident on Pennsylvania ave. west at 12:42 p.m. Monday. A car operated by Mary K. Stein, 57, of 209 N. Carver st., Warren, backed out of a parking spot and struck a car traveling west on Pennsylvania ave. west and operated by Margaret A. Stino of Sugar Grove. The Stein car continued and struck a parked car in the custody of Lawrence J. Russo of 138 Linwood ave., Jamestown, N.Y. that was about 250 feet from the Stino vehicle. The Stein car then struck another parked car in the custody of Kerry N. Bauser, 320 Weiler rd., Warren, and pushed it into another parked car in the custody of Scott and Mabel Phillips of Russell. Police charged the Stein woman with reckless driving. (Photo by Mansfield)

IMF Urges Members To Cooperate With U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Monetary Fund urged its member countries Monday to "make every effort to cooperate with the United States" in achieving a basic improvement in the U.S. balance of payments.
Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, the IMF managing director, delivered the appeal to the 118 national delegations opening the week-long annual meeting of the fund, where President Nixon's pressure play for worldwide currency revaluation is under heavy attack.
A warning that West Germany may be forced to retaliate against what it considers the rigidity of the American stand has been made to Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally by the German finance minister, Karl Schiller.
Schiller notified Connally—according to German sources here—that West Germany "may be compelled to come to a painful reappraisal of the economic and currency policy we have been pursuing."
The circumstances in which Schiller hinted at a rift in the hitherto closely cooperative U.S.-German relationship were not divulged. It was known to have been in direct conversation.
He emphasized that all countries should make contributions—a broad hint that the United States, in addition to insisting that other countries revalue their currencies upward, should go part way by devaluing the dollar—that is, raising the price of gold.
But Schweitzer told the delegates, whose meeting is concurrent with that of the governing board of the World Bank: "Other countries and the international community at large should make every effort to cooperate with the United States in the task of achieving a fundamental improvement in its balance of payments."
Almost as he spoke, the Commerce Department issued August figures showing a deficit in the American trade balance for the fifth month in a row. The U.S. imported $259.7 million more in goods than it exported.
The deficit was $304 million in July.
That brought the deficit for the year through August to $936.1 million, in sharp contrast to a surplus of $2.2 billion for the same span in 1970.

Some Members Fear Burden On Taxpayers

By PAUL REICHAUT
Warren Borough's highly touted three-pronged action plan, which was introduced last summer to revitalize the borough and particularly the downtown district, died unexpectedly Monday night at the hands of some of the very councilmen that had pushed its development during an earlier meeting.
The fatal blow was wielded by eight of 14 council members attending last night's meeting; ostensibly because they feared it would create a financial burden on the taxpayers.
In August, ten of 13 councilmen had okayed a motion to let the borough negotiate a contract with Kendree and Shepherd Planning Consultants, Inc. for a combination action plan-master plan updating traffic flow study package, with the stipulation that it not exceed $42,500.
Last night Planning Committee Chairman Rockwell O'Sheill told council that a contract for only $39,300 had been negotiated. He also said that this contract included several options that, if not adopted, could reduce the cost to $33,000 and that some portions of the contract could be renegotiated if deemed advisable at a later date.
Almost immediately opposition from Councilman W. D. McElwain was heard. He claimed that the action plan would cost the borough from 1 to 1.5 mills in new taxes.
McElwain said, "I think we should push the bypass and come back up with this later...as chairman of the finance committee I hesitate to spend that kind of money."
Nearly half of the $39,300 might have been raised through state and federal funding programs with approximately $20,000 left for the borough to foot.
McElwain seemed to fear that the funding programs would not come through when the chips were down.
"We're not trying to kid ourselves," O'Sheill said, "it's a big package."
"Our planning staff has allowed us to pare off part of the original estimate and trim the costs considerably." (The borough's planning staff had agreed to undertake some of the work Kendree and Shepherd had originally expected to do.)
"This is not another traffic study," O'Sheill said. "We're talking in terms of traffic flows, not traffic calculation." He pointed out that the plan would consider any changes such features as the bypass and the Market st. bridge might make on flow problems in the borough.
He added that revising and updating signalization throughout the community would be integral to the whole study, because it is one of the prime factors involved in traffic flow analysis.
"Signals are a constant pain," Borough Manager Frank Strange said, "they must be replaced and updated to conform with state requirements."
McElwain remained adamant. "I still think we're getting ahead of ourselves."
O'Sheill retorted, "Yes, but this borough's often found themselves a year late and a dollar short."
Besides the in-depth traffic flow project, which was to be subcontracted to traffic engineer Donald M. McNeil, the three-phase plan involved a sophisticated study of the downtown business district and other areas central to the economy of the community and in updating of the master plan, which is essential to realizing long range goals and obtaining federal or state funding.

IN ULSTER SUMMIT TALKS
Prime Ministers Seek To Head Off Civil War

LONDON (AP) — British and Irish prime ministers sought in three-way summit talks Monday to head off the danger of civil war in Ireland.
In day-long talks Britain's Edward Heath led the search for a political truce between the feuding leaders of the Irish republic and the Northern Ireland government, Jack Lynch and Brian Faulkner.
There was no evidence of immediate progress after the two-day parley recessed for the night. Heath, Lynch and Faulkner are all under fierce political pressures at home to yield little or nothing to their challengers.
Nevertheless, despite a news blackout, informants reported one of Heath's starting points was a move to discover if a process of compromise — Britain's short-term aim — would follow any modification of Northern Ireland's system of internment without trial.
Internment is at the center of Northern Ireland's latest phase of agony. It was introduced in early August. Faulkner insisted the system was essential for the security of the Protestant ruled six counties and that mainly known or suspected terrorists of the outlawed Irish Republic Army have been held.
His opponents contend it has been used mainly on a basis of political selectivity, with members of the Roman Catholic minority as the chief victims. So far more than 200 persons have been detained.
No details emerged of how Heath sees the system being modified, but his reasoning seemed plain. A break-through into a process of political compromise toward a broader based Northern Ireland constitution appears to depend on some change in the internment policy.
The conference at Heath's country residence at Chequers, outside London, was the first bringing British and northern and southern Irish leaders together since 1925. It came at a time of ever-escalating violence involving the feuding Catholic and Protestant communities.
In the republic the Catholics form 95 per cent of the population. In the north they are in a 40 per cent minority with no representation in the Belfast government. Most want a single, united Irish republic.

Teachers End Walkouts In 2 School Districts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Teachers in two Pennsylvania school districts ended walkouts Monday but strikes lingered in four other districts while three other school boards had teachers working under court injunctions.
The latest settlement came Monday afternoon in Allegheny County's Carlynton School District.
Teachers and school board members bargained 20 hours before reaching a tentative agreement late Monday morning. The teachers ratified the contract hours later and announced they would be back in their classrooms Tuesday.
Teachers in the Upper Merion School District in Montgomery County returned to classes Monday after reaching a contract settlement over the weekend.
Teachers in the Hazelton School District in Luzerne County resumed a court-interrupted strike and failed to report for work Monday after the expiration of an injunction that had kept them in school for nearly two weeks.
The teachers had met Sunday with members of the school board but the negotiations failed to produce a contract.
About 618 teachers are involved in the strike, affecting 12,500 students.
Meanwhile, teachers in the districts of Allentown, Armstrong, DuBois and Johnstown continued working under court injunctions Monday, while the school boards in Oil City, North-east and Burgettstown sought court injunctions to halt walkouts that have prevented the start of fall classes.

Second 'Bombing' Planned
Ginger Remains Threat To Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Ginger harassed Atlantic shipping lanes and pushed dangerous swells onto Florida beaches Monday as a team of scientists prepared for a second assault on her 100 m.p.h. winds Tuesday.
Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said Ginger probably would hit the Atlantic coast later in the week if she didn't take a northward tack within 18 hours.
"Don't write her off," said Dr. Robert Simpson, director of the hurricane center. "She's enormous in size and is in an area favorable for future development."
In Puerto Rico, members of project Storm Fury planned to use heat-sapping silver iodide crystals.
"We're standing by to go into the storm again Tuesday," said Herb Lieb of Project Storm Fury.
Fifteen planes flew into the storm-located some 600 miles east of Melbourne, Fla., or about 650 miles northeast of Miami—Sunday afternoon and dropped 46 canisters of silver iodide crystals onto Ginger's heat producing cloud formations.
"We were encouraged," said Lieb. He said the chemicals caused some of the clouds to change patterns but added, "It's too soon to say whether we affected the top winds. It'll take weeks to analyze all the data we gathered."
The planes made 19 trips into the storm Sunday, the second time a storm has been seeded under Project Storm Fury. The first seeding effort in 1969 weakened Hurricane Debby considerably. However, project officials said at the time they could not draw any final conclusions from just one effort.
Theoretically, the silver iodide disperses a hurricane's eye, the central vortex that sucks up the power from the warm tropical waters.
Ginger is not considered an ideal storm to seed because its eye is scattered over a 50-60 mile radius instead of the normal 10-15 mile radius.
"Ginger has sustained 90 m.p.h. winds and top winds in gusts that exceed 100 m.p.h.," said Dr. Simpson of the hurricane center. "Right now, she has gales out 250 miles in all directions. This is no Hurricane Camille, but if it comes ashore, as it almost surely will if it doesn't soon begin a northward movement, it will cause somebody a lot of trouble."
Simpson declined to speculate where Ginger might come ashore but said he would not rule out anywhere between Miami and Charleston, S.C. He warned swimmers and surfers along the Florida coast to beware of riptides and dangerous swells and small boaters from Florida to Puerto Rico to stay near port.

Survey Shows Small Percentage Of Students Registered To Vote

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A sampling of college student registrations across Pennsylvania showed Monday that only a small percentage took advantage of a court-ordered extension and signed up to vote in towns where they go to school.

Many county and local officials told the Associated Press in a survey the impact of transient voters — those who have a permanent residence in some other part of Pennsylvania or in another state — would be hardly noticeable in the coming Nov. 2 election.

But some expressed concern that future registration of such voters, given more time and more organization, could make the difference.

"I think in the case of Northampton County with two college towns, Bethlehem and Easton, there certainly is a threat to the citizens of the communities," says Shirley C. Lieberman, Republican chairman.

"The students do not know the needs or the wishes of the residents nor the background of the community. The student is here for the academic year and certainly has no roots."

The issue came to a head when Atty. Gen. J. Shane Creamer, three days before registration officially closed in the state on Sept. 13, directed that college students can vote where they go to school.

The ruling raised havoc, and some registrars refused to abide by it.

Lawyers from the American Civil Liberties Union, representing non-registered clients in Philadelphia and Northampton counties, went into U.S. District Court and won a week's extension for transient college students.

Commonwealth Secretary C. Delores Tucker extended the court order to all 67 counties, and when 14 declined to comply without a specific court order the federal judges obliged.

A three-judge panel spent a week studying the constitutionality of such transient student voting and ruled Monday it was legal. They said state law, going back to 1937, properly provides that a student can vote from his college residence, providing he has lived there at least 60 days, if he "declares a bona fide intention not to return to reside at his previous domicile."

The district court said registrars can inquire into a student's qualifications but cannot discriminate against them or ask special questions not asked of other registrants.

It is estimated there are more than 400,000 students attending Pennsylvania colleges and universities, with probably 70 per cent who live away from their parents' homes. The greatest numbers are in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Allentown, Easton, Scranton, Erie and Bethlehem.

The state's biggest school is Pennsylvania State University which has 27,500 on campus, nearly equal to the registration in its home Centre County. In State College, where the campus is situated, there are 5,750 registered voters, of which 3,719 are Republican.

During the extended registration, a total of 617 students signed up to vote, about 400 of them Democrats. Some say it would have been considerably higher if it hadn't come between the summer and fall school terms.

"The effect of the student registration could be serious in upsetting the political balance if it were on a large scale," says Centre County Commissioner George C. Smith. "It would be possible for the students to take control of the county or the State College Borough."

In an effort to prevent such a possibility, five residents have asked Centre County Common Pleas Court to remove transient students from the voting rolls. A hearing is scheduled for Wednesday.

The greatest transient student turnout was in Philadelphia where a torrid fight for mayor generated lots of interest among the young.

Here 1,656 registered — 959 Democrats, 288 Republicans and 409 nonpartisans — in a city controlled by Democrats since 1951.

The Republicans worked hard in the state's biggest city to stimulate interest on the campuses of Temple, Penn and Drexel, where a total of more than 50,000 are enrolled. Their candidate, Thacher Longstreth, figures he'll get most of the votes no matter what party designation.

Al Guadrosi, manager for the Democrat Frank Rizzo, says he's not going to make much of an active campaign among the young.

"We feel the kids are in politics and know what they want to do," Guadrosi says. "They're smart. They've got opinions. Nobody is going to tell them how to vote."

The under 21-vote probably will have some effect in Philadelphia where nearly a million are registered. There are a total of 53,183, all local residents except for the 1,656 transients, and they could be a force if they organize. Four years ago, before the 18, 19 and 20 year olds had the vote, Mayor James H. J. Tate won re-election by less than 12,000 votes.

In Northampton County, home of Lafayette, Lehigh and Moravian Colleges, a total of 217 transients registered, nearly half of them Democrats. Over-all there were 2,046 under 21 registered.

State Rep. James F. Prendergast, an Easton Democrat, doesn't believe non-resident students will have much affect.

"My opinion is that most students will exercise their right to vote in their home district," Prendergast says. "I really don't think they have that much interest in local elections in their college towns, but instead are concerned with what happens at home."

In Clinton County, where Lock Haven is located, there were 87 transient students, 43 of them Democrats and 25 Republicans. They might be able to help the candidacy of Robert Weller, college football coach, who is a Republican candidate for City Council.

In Schuylkill County, site of a Penn State branch campus, a total of 66 transient students signed up to vote in the disputed extended registration period. They included 42 Republicans and 15 Democrats.

Nancy Montz and Robert Stump, both Schuylkill Haven councilmen, agreed they didn't think such voters would have much impact on the community but they disagreed on whether it was right.

"I feel young persons should have the right to vote but I don't feel it should be where they go to college if it isn't their permanent residence," Miss Montz says.

"I see nothing wrong with it," Stump says. "I think it has to be brought out before the public. I don't think the community knows much about it yet."

Ralph H. Wagner, chairman of the Crawford County commissioners, said transient voting is wrong, and he opposed it. "We were ordered to register students only," Wagner says. "This is what we did. At the same time we were forced to turn down returning veterans from Vietnam. That is discrimination."

Court Rules Students Can Vote Where Attending School

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A special three-judge federal court ruled Monday that college students in Pennsylvania can register and vote from where they go to school.

Judge John J. Gibbons of the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and District Judges Alfred L. Luongo and John P. Fullam said the federal and Pennsylvania constitutions permit such voting provided students meet the residential qualifications.

A voter must be a resident of the state for 60 days and a resident of the election district for 90 days.

The judges made permanent a temporary restraining order issued Sept. 13, and amended three days later, which directed registrars in all 67 counties to register students who meet the residential qualifications of the Pennsylvania Election Code of 1937.

That injunction followed an order by Atty. Gen. J. Shane Creamer that students were entitled, under law, to register and vote from the district where they go to school. When some counties refused to go along, the court action followed.

Judge Luongo had issued the original restraining order. In it he directed registrars to keep the names of college students apart from those of other voters until the constitutionality of their right to vote from where they go to school could be determined.

Monday's order directed registrars, in effect, to put the names into the regular voting lists.

The judges in their order said registrars could inquire into a registrant's qualifications and residence but couldn't discriminate against students, nor ask them questions not asked of other registrants.

They also said students, to qualify for the right to vote under the law, must:

1. declare a bona fide intention not to return to reside at his previous domicile, or,
2. declare a bona fide intention to remain indefinitely at his college residence.

IN YABLONSKI MURDER TRIAL

Attorneys Want To Look At 'Secret' Confession

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Attorneys for Aubran Martin, one of five persons charged with the 1969 killings of labor leader Joseph "Jack" Yablonski and his wife and daughter, sought court permission Monday to look at part of a confession by one of the defendants that has been kept secret.

At the same time, the attorneys asked Washington County Judge Charles G. Sweet to approve court-funding of a public opinion poll to determine if Martin could get a fair trial in this southwestern Pennsylvania county.

Judge Sweet took both matters under advisement and said he would rule within 90 days.

Monday's pretrial maneuvering was designed by the defense to gain access to whatever evidence the state had concerning Martin and the other defendants especially Claude Vealey.

It was Vealey's confession to FBI agents that led to indictments against the others.

Martin already has pleaded innocent to the murder charges and the others, Paul Gilly, his wife Annette and her father Silas Huddleston, are to plead Tuesday. They, too, are expected to profess innocence.

Vealey's confession detailed the murders of Yablonski, an insurgent in the United Mine Workers union, and his wife and daughter in their Clarksville, Pa. home Dec. 31, 1969, implicating Martin and Gilly and himself.

However, about 12 pages of Vealey's confession were never made public and that apparently is evidence the defense would like very much to see.

"We ask that the prosecution supply us with copies of any and all statements by the other four defendants on the grounds that they could tend to exculpate our client," said Mark Goldberg, Martin's chief defense attorney.

There was a brief period of speculation that one of the other defendants besides Vealey, perhaps even Martin himself, had made a confession when Judge Sweet said to Goldberg:

"Suppose the prosecution, and I'm just supposing this because I don't know if they do, has a statement from one of the other defendants. Are you saying that you want a copy of this, too?"

"Yes," said Goldberg. "Later, however, Goldberg said there were no other confessions that he knew of and that his move was made to get copies of that part of Vealey's confession that was never made public.

Special state prosecutor Richard Sprague, an assistant district attorney in Philadelphia, when asked about the possibility of a second confession said, "I have no comment on that whatsoever."

Sprague argued that the state's evidence, including all statements by defendants, should only be made available to the defense after they are introduced as evidence at Martin's trial.

The 22-year-old defendant, youngest of those charged, was slated to go on trial Oct. 18, but his attorneys are expected to delay that by several months through pretrial motions.

Shapp Signs Jobless Pay Hike Legislation

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shapp, forecasting continued high unemployment throughout the nation, signed into law Monday legislation increasing benefits to the jobless.

The major change in the existing law increases the maximum weekly benefit from $60 to $81. The law takes effect Friday, but the higher weekly benefit will be paid only for new claims and not claims already established.

"Most indications are that the unemployment situation in the nation will at best get no worse," Shapp said. "The unemployment compensation amendments of 1971 will build a sounder financial floor for every working family in Pennsylvania."

Shapp said 276,000 citizens in the state's labor force are jobless. The Department of Labor and Industry estimates that 115,000 of them are covered by unemployment compensation.

The department says the increased benefits will cost business about $85 million a year. The governor described published reports that business costs would go as high as $230 million "excessive and unsubstantiated."

Under the program, the employer pays all but the administrative costs, which the federal government foots.

Ask Strikers To Return To Work
FALCONER, N.Y. — Workers involved in any strike, stoppage or interference with production at the Monroflex plant of the Carborundum Co. here have been called upon to return to work immediately, pending settlement of disputes between the company and the union in court.

James E. Dutches, president of Local 27 of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, and John J. Wasloski, international representative of the union, issued the call in a joint statement:

"... We ask that all employees who are involved in any strike, work stoppage, picketing or interference with production return to work. As you know, neither the union nor the officers ordered any strike nor its continuance. The union and your officers have been served with a court order directing that we publicly disavow the strike, picketing, stoppage and other interference with production. ... We have filed grievances with the company and intend to resolve any differences in court ...," the message said, in part.

ON VISIT TO RED CHINA

U. S. Doctors Report They Didn't See Chairman Mao

(c) N.Y. Times Service

HONG KONG—Dr. Paul Dudley White, the American heart specialist, said upon his arrival here Monday that he had not seen Mao Tse-Tung, the Chinese Communist party chairman, during a 12-day stay in the People's Republic of China. His comment was in response to earlier speculation that he had attended Mao for a heart attack in Peking.

White and another American heart specialist, Dr. Edmunds Gray Dimond, arrived here enroute home. Dimond said he also had not seen Mao.

The two American medical men, accompanied by their wives, were in China as guests of the Chinese Medical Association and reported that they had spent all their time seeing Chinese Medical establishments and visiting with Chinese doctors.

"I did not see any high political figure," White said. "We heard over the BBC the speculation that Mao Tse-Tung was ill, and we enquired of Chinese doctors about it but they had no knowledge of it."

White said he was impressed by what he had seen of medicine in Communist China.

"They are doing a magnificent job," he stated. He and Mrs. White hurried from the train station to Hong Kong airport to catch a plane for Rome.

Dr. and Mrs. Dimond are spending a few days here before returning to the United States.

Observers have been speculating that the cancellation last week of the customary big parade that was to be held in Peking to celebrate Oct. 1 National Day, as well as an earlier three-day stoppage of traffic on airports in China, pointed to some critical development in the People's Republic.

The initial speculation that Mao might be ill or dead has now been dropped by most circles.

It continues to be noted here that top Peking military leaders continue to be out of the public view. None has been referred to in Peking press and radio reports for two weeks.

Premier Chou En-Lai, however, has been in news reports almost daily.

Local Chinese papers Monday morning said that the Canton television station had said Sunday that it would have an important announcement this evening.

Observers here discounted reports that there is special military tension in the Amoy area of Southern Fukien. Travelers from Hong Kong are being refused permission to go to Amoy, but it is believed that this is because the Amoy area has just been severely damaged by typhoon.

Tax Revenue Loss

While the public has every right to expect that government employees, elected or appointed, are duty bound to work in the interests of the private citizen, the current attitude of government personnel seems to be "the public be damned." And if one checks closely the activity behind the scenes in Washington, it isn't hard to determine that this charge can be placed against most in government service from the President right on down.

A case in point is an arrangement known as DISC (Domestic International Sales Corporation) never mentioned by the President in defense of his new economic policy. Yet Professor Stanley S. Surrey, Harvard Law School, classes it as a "billion-dollar tax loophole for the major corporations." And the plan is being forcefully endorsed by the U. S. Treasury Department.

The way it works, according to Professor Surrey, any firm engaged in export trade (and what big corporation isn't?) can set up a paper subsidiary as a DISC under direct control of the parent firm. Through this they are entitled to a deferral on income on the taxes from profits on export trade. And for 15 years, if not indefinitely.

As the professor sees it, such deferral amounts to nothing more than an exemption of the tax, and he quotes a high Treasury official as saying, "I need not tell this group that tax deferral is the name of the game. A tax deferral one, two or several years is simply a lower amount of tax on those who achieve such deferral -- a burden that must be assumed by all other taxpayers." The official was addressing a group of professional accountants.

While those who support the DISC arrangement claim that the tax deferral funds will be used to improve export activities, tax experts point out that the law isn't worded to make this mandatory. They also point out that through the DISC proposal the Treasury Department is actually skirting the provisions of the tax-haven abuses law enacted by Congress in 1962.

"The DISC proposal," says Professor Surrey, "should simply be dropped as a bad idea -- a major loophole if viewed as a tax provision; utterly in conflict with our national priorities if viewed as an expenditure device; and ineffective if viewed as a trade device."

If, as the professor charges, a billion-dollar loss in tax revenue is involved, there's little reason to think the average taxpayer will disagree with his thinking.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- In a hush-hush report on the Interior Department's publicity operations, a Madison Avenue huckster has recommended that the department should blow its own horn louder, should play up its "photogenic" boss, Rogers C. B. Morton, and should hide the extra expense "in other budgets."

Shortly after Morton took over as Interior Secretary, he hired Harry Treleven, the ad executive who directed the theatrics for President Nixon's 1968 campaign, to analyze the department's information programs.

Treleven submitted an 85-page report, which has been kept under heavy wraps. In other words, the department has refused to give the public any information about Treleven's study of its public information activities. A bootleg copy, however, has been smuggled to us.

"Almost the entire press operation," criticized Treleven, "is too passive, reacting to events rather than looking for opportunities. The bureau has the capability to get (information) out -- but they need to be stimulated by a more Gung Ho attitude at the top."

"Another problem is that most of the senior people are print-oriented. They don't know what to do about it, either. A top priority must be to develop ways of getting Interior's story on television."

MORTON'S VISUAL APPEAL

Treleven suggested the Secretary had considerable television appeal that should be exploited. The husky handsome, six-foot-seven-inch Morton has the shaggy look of a country squire. Treleven, therefore, urged more effort "to get the Secretary visually involved in newsworthy events."

"Secretary Morton is not only the most photogenic member of the Administration but he's also able to participate physically in all kinds of outdoor situations and look natural."

Treleven urged "a nationwide 'network' of specially trained and briefed information personnel be established" to ballyhoo Morton's appearances on the road.

The Madison Avenue expert, who was paid $121 a day for his analysis, also had some suggestions about financing an invigorated publicity campaign. He estimated that the department's total information program costs "close to four million dollars." President Nixon, however, has ordered a government-wide cutback in information activities.

So Treleven suggested slyly: "It (is) impossible to cut the kind of items that occasioned the request for a reduction because they don't exist. The response, therefore, is to eliminate worthwhile items, or go 'underground' -- i.e., hide expenditures in other budgets. The latter is probably the practical way out."

CORPORATE AID

He had another novel idea. "Some of the bureaus (Mines, Outdoor Recreation, and Fish & Wildlife) have been able to obtain private funds for their film programs," he wrote, referring to corporate promotional films. "This is a source of money which should be sought energetically and systematically by the entire department."

Treleven noted, in passing, that the high casualty rate in Interior Secretaries had raised a budget question. He pointed out: "Secretary Udall's name is still on many bookshelves -- Secretary Hickel lives on in print -- and many offices are faced with trying to decide whether they should spend the money to update them with Secretary Morton's name or not."

But Treleven's main emphasis was that the publicity operations should be coordinated and controlled. "Each office," he wrote, "tries to be a total, self-contained and self-sufficient communications operation. What they end up being, however, are small pockets of personnel... with no place to go for professional assistance and no one to tell them whether or not they're on the right track."

Footnote: Having told the Interior Department what's wrong with its publicity, Treleven offered his public relations talents to set it right. He used his position as a government consultant to drum up business for his newly reorganized firm of Allison, Treleven and Rietz.

INTELLIGENCE ITEMS

Like the Central Intelligence Agency, we rate intelligence reports for reliability. The source is given an alphabetical appraisal, the content a numerical rating. An A-1 report, therefore, would be considered wholly accurate.

Chinese Goal (B-2) -- Sources close to the Red Chinese quote them as saying their aim is to oust Chiang Kai-shek from the United Nations more than to gain membership for themselves. They reportedly have said they are prepared to wait 5,000 years, if necessary, for UN membership.

Israeli Withdrawal? (A-2) -- Moshe Dayan, the tough Israeli defense minister, is pressing inside the cabinet for a withdrawal of Israeli troops back from the banks of the Suez Canal. Dayan's reasoning: The Soviet objective is to reopen the Suez Canal; therefore, Russia can be expected to increase military pressure on Israel until the Canal is opened.

Nuclear Threat (B-3) -- Intelligence sources assert fissionable material is being smuggled in tiny amounts into the Middle East. Any industrial nation, they say, can now manufacture a nuclear bomb in less than a month.

Guerrilla Converts (A-1) -- The harsh behavior of South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia is turning thousands of Cambodians into communist guerrillas. Several captured Cambodian guerrillas have said they joined the communists because of the South Vietnamese looting and raping.

ON THE RIGHT...

Sen. Muskie's Gaffe

By William F. Buckley, Jr.

Concerning Senator Muskie's observation that there would be little point in putting a black vice president on his ticket, inasmuch as both of them would proceed to lose, a few observations.

1. President Nixon's retort that Senator Muskie had "libeled" the American people is both disingenuous and misleading. Disingenuous because we have all been told that when Henry Cabot Lodge, running for vice president on Richard Nixon's ticket in 1960, promised somebody somewhere that if Mr. Nixon were elected he would name a Negro to the cabinet, Candidate Nixon almost fainted. And no wonder.

Which brings us to the misleading aspect of Mr. Nixon's criticism. To say there is no race prejudice in this country is about the same as saying there are no rivers that run, or grass that grows. But it is anti-Negro to observe that there is anti-Negro prejudice. It is not anti-Semitic to say that there is anti-Semitic prejudice. Anybody who wants to become president begins by disencumbering himself of any positions or associations which he believes are net liabilities. When, in late 1959, Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh announced flatly that he was opposed to nominating John F. Kennedy because there was too much Catholic prejudice in the country to make possible his election, nobody called Mr. Lawrence anti-Catholic. To be sure, he was himself a Catholic, which was a good hedge against that charge. But even if he hadn't been, he could have made that statement without disgracing himself.

2. Senator Muskie counts on getting the Negro vote to begin with, for no better reason, nor worse one, than that the Democratic Party has for quite a while now won the overwhelming majority of the Negro vote. Acknowledging that that is the way Negroes tend to vote is to acknowledge that a political prejudice will inevitably be stimulated against that particular block. Consider a formal construction of the syllogism: John is a Republican. John doesn't like Democrats. Most Negroes are Democrats. Therefore John does not like most Negroes. Is that a racist conclusion? But consider: the syllogism tells you nothing about John's prejudice being racial in origin. Racial bias takes off from an ethnic point. If approximately half of the American Negro community voted Republican, and the other half Democratic, there would be a considerable lessening of the prejudice one here discusses.

3. The most frequently cited data intended to "document" American racial bias as it touches on politics are inconclusive. Congressman Dellums -- and others -- cite the presence in Congress of a mere 13 black members of the House, and one senator. Why shouldn't there be -- he asks -- 50 black Congressmen, and ten senators, reflecting the population figures? Because, a) although there are twenty-two million blacks, the black population does not in fact exceed the white population in any single state, or in any cities except Washington, D.C. and Newark, N. J. It is a more significant datum by far that Senator Brooke was overwhelmingly elected from Massachusetts, notwithstanding that only two per cent of the population there is Negro. It is, however, probably true that the majority would not have voted for him for President.

And, finally, what the commotion is all about is that the Negro in America began behind -- way behind. That is the meaning of a National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The Negro people's disadvantages, though distinctive, are not unique. A Jew has yet to be nominated for the presidency, though the Jews are half as numerous as the Negroes. And this notwithstanding that the spectacular Jewish contribution to American civilization is merely suggested by the fact that 30 per cent of the undergraduate body of Harvard is Jewish (my figures are a few years old). It is not to be anti-Negro to recognize that the same politicians who until a few years ago were afraid to name a Catholic, are still afraid to name a Jew, haven't even considered naming a woman, as a presidential candidate, should cavil at naming a Negro.

4. So that the case against Senator Muskie had better be made on more substantial grounds. And let those who fret, remind themselves that progress is being made, very fast. I wrote some years ago that I hoped to see a Negro in the White House in 1980. Why 1980? Because it is a symbol for some future time. To say I'd like to see one nominated today, in the hope of being elected tomorrow, would make me, like unto thee, George McGovern, a hypocrite.

ART BUCHWALD

Tell It Right

WASHINGTON -- We're never going to close the credibility gap in this country until the television programs become more honest. No TV show tells it like it is.

If the TV producers were really mirroring life, this is how some of their programs would go:

"Chief, I'm stumped on the Logan murder case. We've tracked down every possible clue and hit a dead end. There are no motives, no fingerprints and the guy had no enemies. It's baffling."

"Did you check the wife's whereabouts on the night of the crime?"

"I didn't have time to. It meant going out to her aunt's house on Staten Island, and so I said the hell with it."

"What about Logan's business partner?"

"We asked the West Coast police to check out his alibi. They never replied to our query."

"Any women in his life?"

"There was a Miss Fan Fan La Tulipe who danced at the Pink Gypsy. Kelly was supposed to find out her connection with the victim, but he was suspended last week during the graft scandal in the 12th precinct."

"From what you've told me, you seem to have done a thorough enough job. I guess we'll put this down as an unsolved murder. If we spent all our time on one murder, we'd never get anything done around here."

"I was hoping you'd say that, Chief. The case was really becoming a drag."

The hospital shows aren't much better at telling the truth about what happens in a large medical center:

"Dr. Edwards, come in please."

"Yes sir, Dr. Fauntleroy, you asked to see me?"

"I was curious about that little old lady who almost died in Room 506. They say you forgot to replace her oxygen bottle."

"So I made a mistake. One lousy error and you're going to wash me out?"

"It wasn't just the little old lady in Room 506, Edwards. I was thinking of the man in the emergency ward the other night -- the one whose leg you amputated after the automobile accident."

"What was wrong with that? Dr. Peters said it was one of the best operations he had ever seen."

"It was, except you cut off the wrong leg."

"So that's why it took him so long to recover."

"Dr. Edwards, you're an intern, a good intern, but you have to stop making so many mistakes. Now what I've called you in about is that I've heard through the grapevine that you left an instrument in Mr. Cummings' stomach this afternoon."

"But I remembered it as I was washing up and made them bring him back."

"Edwards, you're young, and you're impetuous and you're careless. But I'm going to recommend that you be kept on. Do you know why?"

"You owe my father a favor?"

"No, it's deeper than that. You look like a doctor and that to me is very important. Most of the men trying to be doctors these days have long hair and beards. But you know how to dress and you give the hospital a lot of class. Keep your hair short, Edwards, and you'll have a job here for life."

Election Has Its Counterpart

By HERBERT MITGANG

(Editor's Note: Herbert Mitgang is a member of the editorial board of The New York Times.)

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK -- The uncontested nonelection for the South Vietnamese presidency Oct. 3 has its counterpart in creative fantasy for over 200,000 Americans there: from the Delta to the DMZ and beyond they are shooting and being shot at in an unofficially undeclared nonwar.

The biggest public relations triumph of the administration thus far is planting the impression that, like Pan Am's commercial, President Nixon is making the going great. He has told Congress and the country about "our success in winding down the war" but, skeptical senators and Vietnam-watchers say, he has only succeeded in winding down persistent opposition to the war.

This year the casualties and body counts have dropped sharply but the going is slow, costly, still perilous and pegged to politics. Senator Mansfield's original amendment to the draft-extension law calling for a nine month troop withdrawal deadline was weakened into phrasing that is open-ended. The only "date certain" for withdrawal there is considered to be the '72 election here.

It was not Mao but Confucius who said that the best way to leave is simply by going through the door. But the revived fury of recent U.S. serial strikes indicates that our exit is through the bomb days.

The air war is very costly in human and financial terms. A year ago about 5,000 American planes (1,000 fixed-wing and 4,000 helicopters) were operating over Indochina. There are still 3,500 American planes (500 fixed-wing, 3,000 helicopters) in action today. One and at times two aircraft carriers are in coastal water. Plane losses by hostile fire and accidents have been heavy: more than 3,300 fixed-wing and more than 4,500 helicopters in the war up to now.

Nor has the theater of combat been narrowed in this twilight time of disengagement. Five countries are still directly involved. Thailand remains the base of operations for B-52 missions; Laos and Cambodia are regularly interdicted to hinder the enemy's supply system; North Vietnam above the demilitarized zone is photographed by reconnaissance planes and struck by fighter-bombers on "protective reaction" missions; South Vietnam is one big free-fire zone when required to bail out Saigon's soldiers.

In the semantic acrobatics of the Vietnam war, "protective reaction" strikes against anti-aircraft emplacements and missile and fuel sites have been stressed. But far more dangerous in the future are the actions behind two less-familiar phrases: "Pre-emptive attack" against troop infiltration on the trails and "ancillary effect" bombing -- meaning, in support of South Vietnamese forces. When ARVN troops retreated from a Cambodian town a few months ago, under heavy U.S. air cover, Gen. Creighton Abrams remarked, "Dammit, they've got to learn they can't do it all with air. If they don't, it's all been in vain."

In this withdrawal phase of Vietnamization, American troops are supposed to be in a defensive posture. On-the-ground combat responsibilities now belong to the ARVN; it is their turn to search-and-destroy and carry the fight. But an Air Force colonel explains, "Consistent with this concept we support ARVN ground operations with air and artillery. Both B-52's and tactical fighter-bombers have been involved." In these operations the American Air Force's role is restricted to "air logistical support and close air support."

Translated into what has taken place recently, the clear implication of these terms seems to be that American "advisers" and fliers are very much part of offensive actions. They have been engaged in a two-front war in September: carrying South Vietnamese infantrymen into battle deep in the Mekong Delta 145 miles southwest of Saigon and backing them up with helicopter gunships; bombing in the southern panhandle of Laos in direct support of royal Lao forces and C.I.A.-trained guerrilla battalions. These activities hardly accord with the periodic announcements from Washington about "winding down the war" through Vietnamization.

It is difficult to predict what American casualties will be in the next 12 months of nonwar (no settlement is achieved in the Paris talks) (and the administration shows no eagerness to advance the prospect of a settlement there). The present rate of fewer than 100 killed a month is an encouraging drop but it could go up or down, depending not on American-originated actions but on the support given to sustain the governments of client states. The United States has become their hostage militarily.

The probability at this point is that the Air Force activity will be kept at a steady level. Two years ago there were 1,800 sorties (one aircraft on one mission) a month; currently the monthly rate is 1,000. It has gone up this month. The cost of one B-52 sortie in Southeast Asia today -- for fuel and bombs alone -- is between $35,000 and $45,000. Multiplied, this comes to more than $35 million a month.

Many moribund national programs -- for education, housing, employment, parklands -- could be revived by the hundreds of millions of dollars now falling out of the bomb bays on Southeast Asia. Perhaps a more meaningful local measure, even though federal funds are not directly involved, is to compare just the financial costs of the B-52 bombings with what it would take to reopen the main branch of the New York Public Library evenings ($350,000), Saturdays ($350,000) and Sundays and holidays ($200,000) for a full year.

A few nonflying days, not to mention peace, would do it.

THE PENNSYLVANIA STORY

The 'Freeze' Is 'Hot'

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG -- Although President Nixon's new economic policy is referred to as the "freeze" it has been the cause of some pretty "hot" developments in Pennsylvania.

While several State groups and leaders have been vocal in their protests it is interesting to contrast this with the findings of national polls which indicate that America's rank-and-file are supporting the President's economic efforts.

On the Pennsylvania protest front there is the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) which represents teachers across the State. The PSEA is after the national "ruler" because his wage-price-rent policy has frozen certain teacher pay raises.

So incensed was this teachers' organization that it has launched a 14-month political action campaign aimed at ousting President Nixon in 1972!

Then just recently the PSEA Board approved a motion to take appropriate legal action to test all aspects of the Nixon "game plan."

But whoever wrote the PSEA news release raising this possibility should be required to stand in the corner for five minutes -- as the release refers to "President Nixon's August 14 pronouncement." The President's "pronouncement" was actually August 15!

Also taking Pennsylvania shots at the new economic policy are some Democratic leaders in the State Legislature who are unhappy because the Nixon "freeze" is holding up payments of a $3,600-a-year "expense" boost the State Lawmakers unblushingly gave themselves last June.

The first brake to the $300-a-month checks was applied by the lack of a State budget. Then, although a budget was okayed last month, it wasn't approved until after the freeze began. Consequently, the Federal Office of Emergency Preparedness applied the second brake to the legislative expense grab.

So while the legislators are stewing over this turn of events, their employers (Pennsylvania taxpayers) will be realizing a savings of $302,400 during the freeze period.

A second titillating irony is the fact that the Federal government had the audacity to label the legislative "expense" increase as a pay raise and therefore subject to the deep freeze.

Horrors! Doesn't Uncle Sam know that the State lawmakers would be violating their own Constitution by giving themselves a pay raise while still in office?

But first prize for shooting from the hip should go to none other than the Governor of Pennsylvania who gave President Nixon's economy plan about a dozen hours to prove itself.

And the Governor has been shooting ever since.

Interestingly, the number two man in the Shapp Administration is reserving judgment and even went so far as to acknowledge grass-root support.

Lieutenant-Governor Ernest P. Kline told a Chamber of Commerce meeting in Hershey recently that the wisdom, the timeliness and the effectiveness of the Nixon economy plan "remain to be proven."

"For the time being, it has the support of the majority of the American people," added the Lieutenant-Governor in a remark which contrasts vividly with the negative broadsides issued by his boss.

On the Republican side of the fence there was the recent pronouncement by a GOP State Chairman Clifford L. Jones who charged Governor Shapp (a Democrat) with violating the national freeze "by giving salary raises to apparently favored political appointments."

Mr. Jones cited five cases of "violations." Turns out that Mr. Shapp is apparently innocent because four of the five cases listed by Mr. Jones were promotions and the fifth case was an "exceptional merit increment." All reportedly within Presidential guidelines.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q My husband does some photography work in addition to his regular job. Can he deduct the cost of maintaining his photo lab at home as a business expense?

A If your husband is engaged in his photography work for profit, the cost of maintaining his photo lab is a deductible business expense. However, if photography is only a hobby for him, his expenses may be deducted only to the extent of his hobby earnings.

If an activity produces a profit in any two out of five consecutive years, it is presumed to be engaged in for profit, and thus, is not a hobby.

Q I'm moving soon. Should I contact the IRS to let them know where to send my tax forms next year?

A No. Just leave a forwarding address with the Post Office so that your 1971 return can be delivered to your new address. Be sure to use your new address when you file your return so that the IRS can update your account.

Agriculture Census Shows Decline Of Farms In Warren Co.

Warren County showed a total of 419 farms in the 1969 Census of Agriculture, according to figures released by the U.S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census.

In the last previous Census of Agriculture (1964) the number of farms reported in the county was 720.

Of the county's total farms in 1969, 253 are reported as selling $2,500 or more of agricultural products in the year, as compared with 337 in 1964.

The report also shows average farm size in the county was 176.2 acres, and average value of these farms (land and buildings) was $28,874.

Other figures from the report are:

1. Value of all farm products sold in 1969, $5,338,120; in 1964, $5,008,950.

2. Value of all crops sold in 1969, $542,821; in 1964, $657,645.

3. Value of all livestock, poultry, and their products sold in 1969, $4,702,194; in 1964, $4,254,707.

Reported for the first time in an agricultural census is information on the extent to which the corporate structure is being used by operators of farms from which agricultural products totaling $2,500 and over were sold.

Including family farms using this type of business structure, two of the county's $2,500-and-over farms are incorporated.

Studded Tires OK Down South

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania snowbirds fleeing South this winter on studded tires received some reassuring words Friday from the Pennsylvania AAA Federation.

The motorists' association reported there are no states along the route to Florida which ban the use of such winter treads. Only Virginia and Maryland have a degree of restriction, the notice said. Those states do not permit studded tires on their highways except from Oct. 15 through April 15, which is the period of heaviest flight from the northern winter winds and snow.

Zoning Change Hearing Oct. 15

The Board of County Commissioners and the Warren County Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 15, in the third floor jury room of the county court house to consider an amendment to the 1965 Zoning Ordinance of Warren County, which amendment will provide for the transfer of a parcel of land from a Residential "R-2" district to a Business "B" district.

The land is situated in the Village of Tiona, Mead Twp., Warren County.

Market Closes Moderately Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — A heartened stock market closed moderately lower Monday in very slow trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 5.84 points to 883.47.

Analysts said traders were becoming discouraged at the market's inability to develop any rallying power. The market has been sliding for the past several sessions.

In the absence of buying support, prices registered sharp drops with each minor wave of selling, analysts pointed out.

In the news background was the Commerce Department report that the U.S. balance of trade declined last month for its fifth straight monthly period. Also, a private survey indicated that consumer sentiment was still unchanged from its depressed levels.

Uncertainty over what President Nixon plans for Phase 2 of his economic program and worries over the international monetary situation also contributed to the market's slide, analysts added.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 10.23 million shares, compared with 13.47 million shares Friday.

Stocks were lower in all categories except for mail order retail, aircrafts, and chemicals, which were mixed.

Of the 1,662 stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 373 advanced, and 986 declined. There were 9 new highs and 66 new lows.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks fell 0.30 to 53.96. The Associated Press 60-stock average fell 2.3 to 323.0, with industrials off 2.6, rails off 2.6, and utilities off 0.2.

Bankers, Try-M In Final Game

It will take one more game, though the time and place have not yet been set, to determine the winner of the 1971 Recreation Softball League Shughnessy Playoffs.

In a Monday night doubleheader, Try-M Finance came back with a 14-11 win after Pennsylvania Bank & Trust had grabbed the opener 5-3 to set up the final game. Originally, it was scheduled for tonight at 6:30 p.m., but team representatives said late last night that another date would have to be set.

In the opener, winning pitcher Don Baldensperger got the Bankers on the scoreboard with a second-inning home run. They kept that margin by scoring single runs in the third, fourth and sixth frames against Try-M. Tallies in the third and fourth, one on a homer by Jan Garrett. A final run in the top of the seventh completed the Bank's scoring and Baldensperger stifled a Try-M rally at one run to preserve the win.

Roy Swanson doubled home two of Try-M's three first-inning runs in the second game and scored himself on a passed ball. The Bankers got three more in the second, sparked by Bob Lord's leadoff double. Bob Haden got the Bankers back into the ballgame with a homer and Bob Barney doubled for three Bank runs.

Try-M opened an 11-3 bulge with a five-run fourth, led by Swanson. Bill Grove and Ron Caldwell's doubles. The Bankers staged a three-run sixth inning on Larry Bearfield's two-RBI double and Haden's two-run homer in the seventh brought them even closer but not quite close enough.

Knights' Reserves Trip Youngsville

A long drive and a long pass produced the game's only touchdowns as Eisenhower's reserves stretched their record to 2-0 with a 14-0 conquest of Youngsville's junior varsity at Eisenhower Monday.

Sam Kellogg capped the first series of Eisenhower plays, a 50-yard drive, with a two-yard run and Tommy Mazzu added the extra points to give Ike an 8-0 lead early in the game.

The rest of the contest was a defensive struggle, mostly around midfield, with Dean Ferrie, whose 35-yard jaunt had set up Kellogg's TD, passing to David Bosko over the middle late in the game. Bosko broke three tackles to race 43 yards for another TD, but the extra points run failed.

Eisenhower will host Frewsburg on Wednesday, then journey to Youngsville for a rematch on Oct. 11.

Rockets Rip Dragon JVs

Titusville's JV Rockets spelled defeat in bright bold letters last evening on their home field for Warren's reserves, 28-0.

Jim Stewart swept around Warren's left side in the first quarter and completed a 20-yard scoring touchdown.

From the 15 of Warren, quarterback McKee lofted a pass to Smokey Connells to cap another scoring drive. The extra point try failed, but Titusville had a substantial 14-point lead.

McKee brought the Rockets down to striking distance again in the period, but instead of passing he rolled around his left side and around Warren tacklers for the third touchdown of the evening.

Warren's Brett Hagberg dropped back to pass in order to save a whitewashing from the books in the final quarter. As he tossed toward his receiver, Titusville linebacker Steve Moore plucked the ball out of the air and carried it 68 yards for the clincher.

Still winless, Warren will be in Elk County Christian's territory for next Monday's game.

TIDIOUTE'S BASEBALL BULLDOGS

Tidioute Falls To West Forest

By DAVID PIRILLO

It may be a very long season for Coach Jim Scalise and his band of inexperienced Tidioute Bulldogs. Falling backward on a 9-2 smack, the winless 'Dogs suffered their third loss of the year, falling to the first-place West Forest Indians Monday afternoon in Tidioute.

It was more of a gift that Tidioute presented than what could be called a well-earned Indian victory. Southpaw Ted Nuttall was having his tribulations on the hill in the top of the first. Unable to find the strike zone and sometimes the plate, the Bulldog starter issued five walks on balls.

Five walks don't normally produce eight runs, but a trio of stolen bases, and a timely fielder's choice and error did make it possible in a wild, wild first inning.

West Forest accepted it just the same. The Indians are now sitting on top of the Upper Allegheny Valley League with a slate of four victories. East Forest, their closest contender, was inspired to its third victory on the one-hit pitching of Randy Renton in a 6-1 victory over North Clarion. Two bases on balls, an error, sacrifice fly and Paul Liechtenberger's single in a three-run fifth broke the game wide open.

Renton had 12 strikeouts against the Wolves, but it was five muffs on the Wolves' part that sank their hopes. The only hit off Renton was a fifth-inning triple by J. Weaver. Next Monday afternoon the top two clubs—East and West Forest—meet in Tionesta for what looks like the game-of-the-year.

Butch Sliker was a baffler himself for the Indians. Over the seven-inning stint, he manifested control and enough "stuff" on the ball to limit Tidioute to two hits.

All wasn't for naught for Scalise. After he lifted Nuttall in the third, he brought in Herm "Fuzzy" Holmes for more of a trial than to salvage the game. The young sophomore, after straightening himself out after an unstable third and run-producing fourth, settled down to striking out seven Indians in the last three innings, giving up just a seventh-inning single.

Jim Yucha scored Tidioute's first run in the second on an error by West Forest's second sacker, Mike O'Toole. He later scored in the fourth on a single by catcher John Vincent.

Tidioute is at home against

East Forest tomorrow afternoon, and will play the Spartansburg Spartans Thursday afternoon away. Game times for both games are to start approximately 4:00 p.m.

Giants Tab Perry In Crucial Game

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran right-hander Gaylord Perry will be on the mound for the San Francisco Giants Tuesday night as they begin their final series—and their most important as well—and three-game set in San Diego.

Perry, 35-12, will be opposed by Padres' rookie Ed Acosta as the Giants strive to protect their slim one-game lead over Los Angeles in the pulsating National League West race.

After Perry, the Giants will use rookie Don Carrithers on Wednesday night and ace Juan Marichal Thursday night. The Padres will work Clay Kirby and Dave Roberts, their two top pitchers, in those last two games.

The Giants have managed only a split of their six games in San Diego so far this season and Perry, Tuesday night's starter, has a 2-2 record against the Padres. He was the loser 10 days ago when Kirby, 14-13, pitched a one-hitter in San Francisco.

Acosta, 3-2, came to the Padres in August from Pittsburgh in a waiver deal that sent relief pitcher Bob Miller to the Pirates.

If the race goes down to Thursday night, the final game will pit the two aces of the respective pitching staffs. Roberts, 14-16, has the second best earned run average in the National League, while Marichal, 17-11, pitched the Giants to a key victory Sunday that protected their narrow lead over the Dodgers.

That would leave Perry to start on either Friday or Saturday and the Giants, of course, would prefer the latter rather than the former.

Alston's Theory: Win All Three

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston feels his Dodgers may have to win all three season-ending games with Houston here to win the National League West.

"I'd like to win three in a row and take our chances and that's just about what we'll have to do," the veteran skipper said Monday.

However, shortstop Maury Wills noted the San Francisco Giants, who lead by one game, are in a pressure situation. "The pressure is on the Giants, but it's not all on them," said Wills. He admitted San Francisco has some advantage in playing a three-game set with the last-place San Diego Padres.

Warren 24, Greenville 6

When the term "physical" is applied to the Warren football team there are a couple of gentlemen in Greenville who will nod their heads in agreement, and may deliver a comment or two such as they did Friday night. They said, "Warren had to have given Greenville the most rigorous and punishing evening that it's seen in a few years....Andy Lucks made himself known to Greenville backs. Running at full steam, colliding with ball carriers, the bull-like linebacker hit his opponents with such brute force that it looked as though a couple of backs at times were hesitant en route back to the huddle....Don Trubic is a corner. With good recovery and persistent drive, the Dragon end appears to complement Jeff Myers at the other terminal spot....Trojan Coach Ballock made a very logical statement after the drubbing. 'You can't score if you don't have the ball,' he quipped. How right he was. Warren's ball control, especially in the second half, was ruinous. Nineteen times with the ball and only 46 ground yards just doesn't constitute a scoring threat in the final two periods for the hometown favorite. 'Enough can't be said about Fred Martin, Warren's left tackle. His offensive blocking was perfect. It was hard to pick out his number most of the night, for it looked as though he was under one and two would-be tacklers as the plays took form. On offense, Greenville paid him an unspoken comment by running away from his side, with guard Dave Dunn working cooperatively to knit the left side of the Dragon forward wall....Jim Stromdahl's touchdown from 22 yards on his first carry; an error in note taking produced a misprint on Saturday morning's game story. He also had fewer carries, 15 instead of the reported 22....It was reported to us by a Greenville sports writer that an official at the game was a resident of the town. Poor judgment on school officials' part, agreed? The refereeing wasn't classified as par for the evening, but, although he may have not been involved, serious complications as well as implications could result....Oil City should re-kill the way the ashes left in Toby Shea's mind from last year's reported poor officiating against the Oilers. More subdued than in most years, the veteran coach should have his team sky-high emotionally for the 3 1/2-point favorite. It'll take another spirited brand of play Friday evening to keep Oil City at bay....Greenville is nearly 100 miles away, and down some fairly rough highway. A 3:20 p.m. release time for the football team to board the bus and make the trip doesn't give the boys much of a rest break after arriving in Greenville around 5:30. Couldn't an earlier departure be worked out by school officials for those long journeys now that Warren has the long Friday night trips in the Northwestern Football Conference?

Eisenhower 7, Pine Valley 6

Good news for Eisenhower followers was made known last evening. Curt Carlson, who was forced to the bench in the second quarter of the Pine Valley game because of an injury, will be back for this Saturday's engagement with Randolph, N.Y. Carlson, X-rays revealed, suffered no more than a bad hip sprain, and according to the coaching staff at Ike, he's feeling much better as of Monday's workout....Bob Thelin, also a victim of a minor injury, a muscle cramp, will not be hampered from stepping back into the starting fullback position. Thelin, after Carlson was smitten, assumed the role of trying to muster a sustained like offense. In the second half, he gained most of his 55 yards...but it took better offensive line play to fuse the one second-half drive in the fourth quarter....Coach Tom Firth smiled as he referred to his defense as some used to of the Cleveland Browns. "It's somewhat similar to a rubber band defense, it stretches only so far," The coach should know what he's talking about. In two games the defense has only been scored upon once, and that was a 68-yard run in the Pine Valley game. Statistically, the Blue and Gold in Saturday's game would have been relatively even with the Panthers, if it wasn't for the long TD sprint...Guy

Sheffield 38, Youngsville 22

"Everybody was going to get to play in this game, win or lose or draw," said Sheffield's Dick Donville. It wasn't that he didn't want the win—rather, it was that he felt his undermanned squad's reserves, who had taken the practice poundings faithfully since August, deserved their share of the limelight. They got it, too; everybody got in.

Defense was simply nonexistent in the first half. Missed tackles, arm tackles, and poor position playing were evident on both sides as all six touchdowns either were scored or set up on broken-play footraces....Youngsville had Sheffield baffled with its option series in the first half; time and again the Wolverine linebackers would either go for the fake or leave their feet in desperate lunges. But they learned well in the intermission, giving ground only grudgingly in the second half.

Youngsville just isn't as bad as its record indicates; the Eagles have a good-sized line and good backfield speed, but their line breaks down on some pass plays, and quarterback By Baker, a good thrower on straight-out patterns or left-to-right ones, can't hit the right-to-left receiver consistently when rushed hard.

Kevin Weigel runs the option with an extra flair...after he pitches, he usually cuts down a defender with a snappy cross-body block, something most injury-conscious coaches forbid their QBs to do...but it paid dividends for Sheffield on Saturday.

A fan noted that two big local weddings accounted for the small crowd at the game's start....they came in by bunches during the first half, though....the Sheffield players had some fun tossing gibes at the reporter after their victory; they earned the fun with some solid second-half play...."if we only had some speed..." said SHS coach Domville after the game; he's so right, as the Wolverines broke men open many more times than they scored, but just couldn't win all the footraces....commend By Baker for not giving up on Pat Malloy's long pass reception run to paydirt in the second half....he caught him and brought him down inside Youngsville's 10, showing spirit as well as speed....the officials were right on a controversial offensive interference call against Youngsville late in the game, but missed a defensive interference call against the Eagles when Anderson was in the end zone in the fourth quarter.

Sheffield's boosters are attempting to aid the fund drive for SHS band uniforms, which were conspicuous by their absence when Sheffield's band was compared to Youngsville's nattily-attired group....but both bands played well. Matt Luvison did a good job subbing for temporarily-injured fullback Bob Graham on offense (he got hit in the throat at the end of the first half) but Graham was missed on defense....SHS's Anderson only caught one pass, but his presence bothered the Eagles all day, and he showed he's no slouch as a blocker on occasion.

TIMELY ADVICE

Ted Wilson, proprietor of Wilson's Taxidermy in Sugar Grove, sends along the following to guide the hunter who expects to have his trophies mounted regardless of where he expects to have the work done:

Every year taxidermists receive several specimens for mounting that have been poorly handled in the field. Although many of these specimens can be repaired, first class trophies start with proper handling in the field. The following are a few tips on how to care for trophies.

Birds

Wounded birds should be killed by grasping the chest of the bird from the back, behind the wings. Compress the rib cage firmly until the bird expires. The hunter can use his knee on larger birds. Waterfowl are long winged and require more time than upland game birds. Never break the neck on trophy birds.

The entrails should be left in birds and small mammals that are trophies. They will not spoil any faster with them in and the specimens can be kept cleaner. If the specimen cannot be taken to a taxidermist immediately it should be frozen in a plastic bag.

Deer

Many deer are received by taxidermists with poorly cut up necks. Many hunters feel that deer should be "stuck" but do not know why or how to properly stick a deer.

The reason to stick a deer is to get the blood out of the animal. Any deer that is shot in the rib cage, or intestines, that travels any distance before it falls, bleeds well enough. It does not need to be stuck.

If the deer has a broken neck, or back, or is shot in the head and the hunter feels that the deer should be stuck, here is the proper way. Stick the deer low in the neck where the neck enters the chest cavity. Use a vertical incision that will cut as little hair as possible. High horizontal cuts on the neck under the chin ruin the cape and do not bleed the deer properly.

Capes of big game animals should be cut off back of the shoulders or leave their entire hide attached to the head. Hides should be salted if they can not be brought to the taxidermist immediately.

There are a couple of tips that may save somebody from ruining a good trophy this fall.

P.A. COLLEGES

Westminster String At 17 Triumphs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Several Pennsylvania colleges recorded lopsided football victories over the weekend. Westminster, meanwhile, beat Susquehanna by a comfortable 21-6 margin to extend its unbeaten streak to 17 games over a three-year period.

Edinboro, Lock Haven, Mansfield and West Chester — all state-owned institutions — defeated their opponents by at least 30 points, as did Penn State in beating Iowa.

Safety Rob Pontius grabbed two enemy passes while line-backer John Downey picked off one to set up scores in Westminster's triumph. The Titans, NAIA District II champions last year, did all their scoring in the second half. Marck Acerni scored two touchdowns and Joe Veres one.

The Fighting Scots of Edinboro, who overwhelmed visiting Eureka College of Illinois 57-0, shattered two school records and came within one yard of breaking another.

Junior split end Mike Romeo set a new Edinboro touchdown reception mark by hauling in three passes in the end zone. The Scots, now 2-0, also set a new interception record by nabbing five Eureka passes.

Lock Haven, which upset heavily-favored Delaware State a week earlier, routed Bloomsburg, 54-8, Saturday night. Mike Packer, the nation's top small college passer in 1976, completed 21 of 31 passes for 356 yards. He threw four touchdowns and scored another on the ground. Tommy Allen, a junior from Harrisburg, caught 11 passes for 227 yards and a pair of touchdowns.

Mansfield, 1-1, rallied behind quarterback Dwight Kauffman to trounce Bridgewater College of Virginia, 45-13. Kauffman ran for two touchdowns and led the Mountaineers in rushing with 320 yards.

West Chester, defending champs in the eastern division of the Pennsylvania Conference, scored the first time it had the ball against Delaware State and never let up. The final score was 51-0.

Middle linebacker Billy Edgar intercepted one pass and recovered a fumble to set up two of the Rams seven touchdowns.

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, a 35-11 winner over Cortland, N.Y., State, and Wilkes, which toppled Lycoming 29-0, were other easy victors.

The Indians, 3-0, were aided by eight Cortland fumbles. They broke up a close 14-11 game in the second half with three touchdowns keyed by the running of Larry Monsilovich and passing of Chuck Pinchotti.

Halfback Ted Yeager tied a Wilkes College single game rushing record with 172 yards on 43 carries and scored three touchdowns to lead his team. Yeager passed the 2,000-yard career rushing mark to become the first Colonel to achieve that goal.

In other games, Allegheny beat Case Western Reserve, 21-7; Uplands topped Drexel, 13-7; Millersville nipped Kutztown, 28-21; Dickinson defeated Lebanon Valley 16-7; Shippensburg swamped Brockport, 34-7; Franklin and Marshall beat Ursinus, 24-14; Washington and Jefferson topped Carnegie-Mellon, 42-27; Moravian nipped Delaware Valley, 13-7.

Also, East Stroudsburg defeated Montclair State, 14-7; Muhlenberg slipped by Johns Hopkins, 17-13; Bethany beat Thiel, 14-11; Geneva defeated Slippery Rock, 26-14; Waynesburg nipped Findlay, 7-0; Gettysburg tied Kings Point, 21-21; Clarion beat Southern Connecticut, 16-0; Juniata tied Albright, 6-6; Gallaudet nipped Cheyney, 10-6; Mount Union defeated Grove City, 21-14; Wittenberg beat California State (Pa.), 13-6, and Oklahoma routed Pitt, 55-29.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Altoona Protects Status, 28-27

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Altoona high school, picked by many scholastic grid coaches to be the top team in the state, survived a fourth quarter rally by Highlands for a 28-27 victory over the weekend to remain unbeaten in WPIAL Class AA competition.

The Mountain Lions are now 3-0 overall.

In other key games across the state, defending WPIAL Class AA champ Mount Lebanon extended its unbeaten string to 14 games with a 16-0 victory over Uniontown, which has lost 12 in a row; Cedar Cliff, the team to beat in the Central Penn League, stomped Central Dauphin, 40-6, and Neshaminy, a top contender in the Big 7 conference, zipped Easton, 34-16.

Altoona, leading 28-7 going into the fourth quarter, stopped a two-point conversion attempt by Highlands for its squeaker triumph.

Highlands got its second touchdown of the game when Chuck Ottman hit Tom Manley with a 78-yard scoring pass. The Rams failed in their attempt at a two-point conversion, leaving the score 28-13.

Later, Fran Grabigal returned an intercepted pass 36 yards for another Highlands score. Ruben Samuels ran for the extra points bringing the Rams closer to 28-21.

Highlands succeeded in recovering the ball on an ensuing on-side kickoff, and soon scored their fourth touchdown on a seven-yard pass from Ottman to Gerald Pawlak. Altoona, however, stopped Samuels on another two-point conversion attempt to preserve the triumph.

Mount Lebanon, 3-0, got touchdowns from Joe Fasula and Joe Mercer in its victory.

Cedar Cliff, also 3-0, was sparked by Mark Torquato's two touchdowns in its romp over Central Dauphin. The Colts face Lebanon this week.

Pete Cordelli fired touchdown passes of 69 and 37 yards in Neshaminy's win over Easton. Cordelli also threw a long pass in the final period that set up Neshaminy's final score. Neshaminy, a co-favorite in the Big 7 conference with Pennsburg, is also 3-0.

A number of other WPIAL

Class AA games were on the weekend card.

Canon-McMillan upped its record to 3-0 by trouncing Keystone Oaks, 39-14, with George O'Korn passing for two touchdowns and scoring another on a 70-yard run for the winners.

In another big AA game, New Castle edged previously unbeaten Beaver Falls, 28-21, before 7,000 fans in Beaver Falls, the town that produced Joe Namath.

New Castle, 10-0 last year and 2-1 this season, went ahead 22-21 in the fourth quarter on a 6-yard pass from Rick Summer to Allen Isolda. Jess Moss added a 60-yard run for an insurance touchdown.

Beaver Falls, also 2-1, suffered a blow in the first quarter when quarterback Jim Wagner went to the sidelines with an injury.

Elizabeth-Forward, loser by forfeits in its first two games due to a teacher strike, downed previously unbeaten Monessen, 20-0.

Elsewhere in WPIAL Class AA action: — Unbeaten North Allegheny trounced previously unbeaten Fox Chapel, 52-12, with Brian Bashnagel rushing for 208 yards and three touchdowns.

— South Allegheny stayed unbeaten by downing Laurel Highlands, 28-12, with a 14-point fourth quarter spurt. Ron Crosby scored twice for the winners on runs of five and seven yards.

Lancaster and Central Dauphin East, contenders in the Central Penn. met Saturday with Lancaster squeaking out a 7-6 victory. The Tornados won in the last 16 seconds when quarterback Greg Roth scored.

on a keeper from four yards out and Jim Walk booted the decisive point-after.

ED East scored its touchdown in the first period but Lancaster's Steve Doman blocked the extra-point attempt. The winners are 2-0 in the league; CD East is 2-1.

Harrisburg, which lost to Cedar Cliff a week earlier, trounced Steel High, 42-0, to stay in the race. Lancaster meets Steel High this week. Harrisburg travels to Williamsport.

Mid Valley won its third straight game in the northern division of a Eastern Conference with a 6-0 decision over Central Columbia. A 54-yard Central Columbia touchdown pass play was nullified by a clipping penalty.

In a mild upset, Wyoming Area beat Coughlin, 13-0, in the Wyoming Valley League. Both teams were 2-0 going into the game.

Hazleton, led by senior half-back Jeff Jones's two touchdowns, handed Shamokin its first loss, 36-20. Hazleton is now 2-1, also.

Tamaqua, which ended Mount Carmel's 35-game victory streak a week earlier, was stomped by unbeaten Pottsville, 42-6. Mount Carmel rebounded with a 25-0 win over Mahanoy Area.

Colts' Fans Forced Browns To Change

CLEVELAND (AP) — Baltimore's noisy fans forced the Cleveland Browns to change their routine Sunday, and they may have contributed to the Colts' 14-13 defeat.

Cleveland Coach Nick Skorich told newsmen at his weekly briefing Monday that Browns' quarterback Bill Nelsen had to repeat signal calls at the line of scrimmage, turning his head one way and then the other, to make sure everyone heard the numbers above the crowd noise. "It's murder going into Baltimore," said Skorich. "Everyone will tell you, don't try to use audibles

"The fans know it, and they enjoy the reputation," the Cleveland coach added.

In the closing minutes, said Skorich, the Colts lost one precious minute because of the noisy crowd.

That was when Nelsen, unable to call signals because of the noise, took his team back into the huddle twice in a row. "The clock was running part of that time, and the loss of the minute hurt the Colts later because they had to use up their three time outs when the Browns had the ball on their last series of plays," Skorich said. Then, when the Colts finally did get the ball for one last scoring effort, they couldn't stop the clock.

Skorich said Nelsen had been instructed "don't go in there if you can't hear yourself think."

He said Nelsen used audibles frequently, checking off at the line of scrimmage, changing plays and sometimes calling his plays right at the line after checking the Colts' defense, rather than in the huddle.

The coach said Nelsen was "calling plays around Bubba Smith," checking off whenever Smith shifted from his regular defensive end position.

"Bubba is a great pass rusher," Skorich said, "but they have to move him over to center for the rush up the middle."

Whenever Nelsen saw the 6-foot-7, 295-pound Smith shift to the center of the line, he checked off to compensate for the rush, said the coach.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a message for that 11-year-old boy whose father drinks. He was ashamed to sign his name. Please help me get to him, Ann.

Dear Boy: You are 11 and I am 60, but I once stood where you are standing now. I want to reach out to you and say I understand every word you write. I know exactly how you feel—the shame, the despair and the bitterness.

Stop being ashamed. Stop hating. Your father is as crippled as if his legs were paralyzed. Your shame and hate will not touch him, but they will sap your strength and rob you of your energy. Instead of harboring negative, destructive thought, replace them with positive, constructive ideas. Every day do one good thing for your mother, out of love—anything at all—even if it's a small gesture or a kind word. And when the going gets rough say to yourself, "God will help me." He WILL help. You are His son, too. Keep pitching. You can make it. I did. I want you to. So do others. Good luck and God bless—A FRIEND IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR FRIEND: I can add nothing to your wonderful letter and I thank you for writing it. You have a vital message for every child who lives with alcoholism.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of five children and have been able to cope with most of the problems that have come my way. But I am running into some brick walls with my second oldest daughter.

Charlotte is 15, a large girl, but well-proportioned and not what you would call fat. In a couple of years she will be all right if she chooses the right clothes. Last year Charlotte started to sew. She is very sloppy about her sewing and we have gotten into several arguments over it. I just don't have the time to rip out everything she does and do it over. The last straw was the two-piece outfit she made from her own pattern—a blouse and hot pants. She looks just awful in it because she made the hot pants very tight and very short. On a clear day you can see to Yankton.

My question is this: Should I keep my mouth shut and allow her to wear the outfit and get laughed at? Or should I forbid her wearing it?—WAITING IN SOUTH DAKOTA

DEAR WAITING: A girl whose eyesight is good enough to sew should be able to see herself in the mirror. Say nothing. Let her wear whatever she makes. Her friends will tell her what she looks like—and from THEM she'll believe it. After all, what do YOU know? You're only her mother.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am interested in Women's Lib because I believe in their goals. Will you please tell me why they get so much rotten publicity? Much of it is unearned maligning based on fiction. For example, I keep hearing them referred to as "those crazy bra-burners." I have asked many well-informed women in the movement about this and no one knows of a single bra that has been burned. A committee of Women's Libbers threatened to burn a bra in 1968 at the Miss America contest but they couldn't get a fire permit so they abandoned the idea.

We would appreciate it very much if you would print this in your widely syndicated column and put to rest this ridiculous, oft-repeated canard. Thank you—NASSAU COUNTY

DEAR NC: Here's your letter—and a pox on those mean-mouthed, loose-lipped canard-perpetuating cads. I don't know where the bra-burning propaganda originated but I've seen a lot of dames who may well have burned their bras because they sure as heck weren't wearing them.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This might not sound like an important problem to you, but it is driving me nuts. To put it in a few words—what can be done about people who have a lot of nerve and no common sense?

I sell auto license plates in Florida. People I hardly know ask me to get their plates so they won't have to stand in line. Last week three casual acquaintances came to my home with their money and registration blanks. One woman—a college graduate—asked me to help her fill out the form. SHE COULDN'T UNDERSTAND IT!

This morning a distant relative showed up while I was having breakfast. I asked him why he didn't bring the stuff to the office. He said, "The parking around there is rough." What do you think about a jerk who wouldn't walk a few blocks but he thinks nothing of interrupting my breakfast?

Please print this. Everyone around here reads your column. Maybe if they see themselves they will take the hint and leave me alone next year—PAIN IN THE NECK IN FLORIDA

DEAR PAIN: Here it is, but don't bet the rent, Lady. The people with unlimited gall are invariably the most insensitive. If you want these clods to leave you alone you'll have to come right out and tell them so.

Unsured of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's And Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MR. AND MRS. ALLEN EDWARD CATRETT

Avanell Louise Hart, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Hart of Sheffield, Pennsylvania, and Allen Edward Catrett, son of Mr. Otis L. Catrett of Hanahan, South Carolina and Mrs. Enid Padgett Catrett of DeFuniak Springs, Florida, were united in marriage on Saturday, July 10, 1971 at the Stimson Memorial Chapel, Bad-Godesberg, Germany. The Rev. Boats performed the double ring ceremony at 2 p.m.

Two vases of purple and pink summer flowers, composed mostly of carnations, irises, roses and daisies, decorated the altar, and adorned the front of the church. Pink daisies and white baby's breath rested on the altar rail.

Organ music was provided by Herrn Helmut Schmidt and the soloist was Mrs. Richard Hoover.

The bride wore a white, floor length, A-line gown of silk organza. A pleat adorned the front of the dress trimmed with crocheted lace scallops. Crocheted lace scallops formed the bodice

Unique Ceremony Unites Couple At Irvine Presbyterian Church

Marilyn Sue Swanson and Peter William Forde were united in marriage Saturday, September 18, 1971 in a ceremony written by the couple. The Rev. Robert L. Zorn performed the double ring ceremony at 1:30 p.m. at the Irvine Presbyterian Church. Soloist was Miss Nancy Clark, who accompanied herself on the guitar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kellerman of Irvine, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Forde of Campbell River, British Columbia, Canada.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza over bridal taffeta in an "A" silhouette. Delicate schiffli embroidery underscored with blue satin ribbon graced the front of the skirt and the molded empire bodice. French knot lace edged the bateau neckline and the wedding points on the wide cuffs of the embroidered bishop sleeves. A pert blue satin bow with long streamers sprinkled with Venice lace florets topped the sweeping chapel length train of the embroidery. Her bouffant veil of pure silk illusion was caught to a spray of Venice lace petals centered with a floret of seed pearls and aurora borealis. She carried an arm bouquet of blue carnations and baby's breath. She also wore a gold cross and chain, belonging to her grandmother.

Miss Rowan Marsh, of Montreal, Canada and London, England, served as maid of honor. She was dressed in a floor length "A" line gown of mint green sheer over taffeta. Narrow ruffling edged the jewel neckline and the wrist of the long narrow sleeves. A moss green velvet ribbon defined the empire waist and her moss green velvet headband held her mint butterfly veil. She carried a single chrysanthemum accented with ivy and a green streamer.

Bridesmaids were Miss Anne Kirkpatrick of Kingston, Ontario and Mrs. Sue Perrin of Youngsville. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Charlene Kellerman, sister of the bride. They were gowned similar to the honor attendant in aqua gowns with moss green velvet trim. They wore moss green velvet headbands with aqua veils. Flower girl was Miss Patty Kellerman, niece of the bride, who was gowned in miniature to the maid of honor and carried a basket of green pom poms.

Patrick Forde of Campbell River, British Columbia, served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Glenn Smith of Toronto, Ontario and Archer Perrin of Youngsville.

The mother of the bride wore a green dress and yellow carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose an ice blue two-piece suit and a pink carnation corsage.

A reception at the Brokenstraw Fish and Game Club for approximately 75 guests followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Ervin were Master and Mistress of Ceremonies and aides were Mrs. Dianne Nasman, Miss Lynne Morley and Miss Lynda Morley.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will be residing in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The new Mrs. Forde is a graduate of Youngsville High School; attended Graham's Junior College in Montreal, and, until the time of her marriage, was employed as a passenger representative for Furness Withy and Co. Ltd. in New York City. The bridegroom is a graduate of Campbell River High School and was employed by Gold River Logging Co. Ltd., Gold River, B.C.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Sue Perrin and Mrs. Dianne Nasman; Mrs. Irene Swanson, Mrs. Ingrid Fitzgerald, and Mrs. Karin Rowley; and co-workers at Furness Withy & Co. Ltd.

Flowers and table decorations were carried out in gold, with place mats featuring gold "Smile" faces. A gold tree held small wicker baskets containing sachets, which were presented as gifts to the mothers.

Entertainment following dinner consisted of songs played on the harmonica by Mother Nanny Kirberger, accompanied on the piano by Aux. Mrs. Mike Lindvall. Auxiliary Lucille Sullivan showed slides of her trip through the New England States and Canada. Group singing was also enjoyed. With Lucille Sullivan at the piano, the closing number, Nearer My God to Thee, was sung.

The dinner chairman, Katherine Lingo, thanked all members who joined in assisting as social committee. A brief meeting was held, at which it was announced that the Sidewalk Festival booth proved very successful. The next regular meeting will be held on Thursday, October 14, at 7:30 p.m.

The couple was married in a civil ceremony on July 9, 1971 in the Ständesamt of Bad-Godesberg according to the laws of the host country. Standing up for the couple was Al Brainard and Herrn and Frau Udo Selbmann.

The bride is also the niece of Mr. Elmer W. Nelson of Sheffield and great-niece of Mr. and Mrs. David Wollaston of Warren, and Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Sheffield.

Hint From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Many women complain about lint on their husband's dark socks and on corduroy pieces, but they never think that all they have to do is to turn the socks and corduroy wrong side out before washing.

This way the lint does not attach itself to the fabric when washed with other garments.

If the Shoe Fits

THE WORD GAME

Let's play a little word game. When I say a word, you say the first word that comes to mind. Ready? "Left...right". Very good. Now let's try another. "Mom...Dad". Good, now "Shoe...Fit". "Brother...Sister". "Shoe...Fit". I know I'm repeating myself, but I wanted to make a point. The whole point is that shoes and fit go hand in hand. If the shoe fits, you'll wear it. If it doesn't, it will stay on the closet shelf, and you'll be mad at the clerk who sold it to you. Let one of our fitters fit you correctly and we'll all be happy about it. Few things are enjoyed more than an attractive pair of good comfortable shoes.

REV. ALLEN R. KILLEN

Evangelist-Singer

OCT. 5 thru 10

EVERY NIGHT AT 7 P.M.

REV. ALLEN R. KILLEN, of Charleston, W. Va. is a dedicated and talented young man. A dynamic preacher and outstanding gospel singer, he is now serving in full-time evangelism.

The son of a minister, he was converted as a teen-ager. He served four years in the United States Air Force before entering college. During his college days he traveled through many states, singing with a gospel quartet. He enjoyed a successful pastoral ministry in the South prior to entering the field of evangelism.

In sermon or in song this versatile Christian worker has only one desire—to exalt our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ and to offer full salvation to all men.

His dual talents enable Mr. Killen to serve effectively as song evangelist or preacher in camp meetings, city-wide and area crusades, holiness conventions or revival campaigns. He often combines both abilities in these meetings.

In order to share his ministry in song Mr. Killen's rich baritone voice has been recorded by Heart-Warming Records on three long-playing albums entitled "The Will of God for Me," "God's Great Grace," and "When the Song of the Lord Began."

Complaints Cleared Up

Officials at the Warren County sheriff's office cleared up two minor problems in the county Saturday.

A complainant claimed that a 1949 sedan, later found to belong to Paul L. Miller of 256 Page Hollow rd., had been abandoned on Wilderness Park rd.

The owner was contacted and moved the vehicle the same day.

In another incident trespassers had allegedly camped in a posted area near Cherry Grove. The incident was resolved when the campers paid a rent settlement to the owner of the property and moved on.

How To Slash Insurance Costs

Since 1961, the cost of auto insurance for a family man, preferred risk, commuting from Washington suburbs to the central city, has soared more than 80 per cent. Since 1967 alone, auto insurance rates in general have jumped 43 per cent. Just in the past 12 months, the increase has approximated another 12 per cent. On top of this, even during this across-the-board freeze, your auto insurance rates may go up under certain circumstances.

For instance, says the Insurance Information Institute, you may find your premium hiked if an increase in rates had been approved and used prior to the price freeze. Or you may be charged a higher premium because our only teen-ager has just obtained a driving license or because you've lost your safe driver discount or because you've moved into a territory with a higher rate, or other similar reasons.

Yet, even in the race of this grim auto insurance squeeze—and for millions of drivers that's precisely what it is—I guarantee you can slash your premium costs by obeying the 13 rules below.

(1) If you are a student, enroll in a recognized driver training course to qualify for a 5 to 10 per cent premium cut; nearly 14,000 colleges and high schools in the U.S. now offer these courses. In addition, the National Safety Council has launched a pilot "Defensive Driving Course" whose graduates in at least two states are being offered premium reductions up to $42 a year.

(2) If you change your commuting habits—switch from a car to a train or bus—notify your insurer at once so he can reduce your premium rate accordingly.

(3) If you are an older person, ask about special discounts based on your age bracket's good driving record. In many states, the typical discount for drivers over age 65 is 5 per cent—quite a switch from the prejudices of only a few years ago.

(4) If you drive your car less than 6,500 miles a year, check whether you're eligible for as much as a 10 per cent rate cut.

(5) If you quit smoking or drinking, find out whether your company offers reductions for non-smokers or teetotalers.

(6) If you work for a large company or are a member of a union, social or professional group, check whether you can get low-cost group auto insurance. If not, see whether a local insurance company will develop this low-cost insurance for your group; that alone can cut your own premiums 15 per cent or more.

(7) If you have a typical $50 deductible on your collision insurance, slash your costs simply by shifting to a higher deductible. A switch from a $50 deductible to $100, could cut your collision insurance costs 20 per cent; a hike to $250, easily could bring you savings of 40 per cent. Your auto insurance is NOT a budgeting device to pay for small repairs; don't wastefully use it this way.

(8) If your car is an old jalopy worth, say, less than $1,000, your best move may be not to carry any collision insurance.

(9) If you have expensive comprehensive coverage, make the coverage a little less comprehensive. Lop off miscellaneous coverages you don't need. Or tack on a $50 deductible to your full comprehensive coverage and save up to 40 per cent.

(10) If you're a farmer or rancher and use your car or pickup truck only on and around your farm or range, check on your eligibility for a farmer's auto insurance discount.

(11) If you're buying a new car, keep in mind that rates on a "muscle" or high performance car may run 20 to 50 per cent higher than average. If you buy an inexpensive or low-powered car, though, you will be charged a lower premium.

(12) If you're just starting to buy coverage, look for an economy-type policy available in most states which gives you a package of liability, medical payments, collision, comprehensive and other coverages at savings from 10 to 20 per cent under the same coverage bought separately.

(13) AND THE OLD BASICS: Save by paying your premiums annually. Shop and compare premiums for the coverage you need among insurance agents, brokers, auto dealers, reputable mail-order insurance companies for the best deal for you. Make sure your good driving record is earning you the maximum possible discount of up to 15 to 20 per cent (four out of five drivers qualify for a discount). Insure all the family cars under a single policy for discounts of about 15 per cent. Insure your car in the family's name, if you are in the high-risk, unmarried younger-age bracket, listing yourself as the principal driver. Request, if you are a student with a "B" or better scholastic average, a good-student discount of up to 25 per cent.

3 Found Guilty In Drug Case

TITUSVILLE - Three young Titusville men were found guilty of possession of dangerous drugs at a trial in the Crawford County Court House. A jury of eight men and four women returned a verdict shortly before noon Saturday after nearly 16 hours of deliberation.

Two of the five defendants in the case were found not guilty. John M. Connell, 22, of 531 W. Spruce st., Ronald T. Brady, 23, of 406 E. Main st. and John Stefaniszyn, 19, of 417 S. Franklin st., were found guilty by the jury.

Nolan S. Phillips, 23, of Hydeftown and Robert McGarvie of Centerville were found not guilty.

The defendants had all been arrested at the home of Harry Forbes on West Central ave., Titusville by city and state policemen.

If no appeals are filed within seven days, the three will be scheduled for sentencing.

Tidioute Firemen Plan Auction

The Tidioute Volunteer Fire Department will hold their annual auction sale Oct. 9 beginning at 10 a.m. in the old Norton Building at 228 Main st. The sale is held annually in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Fishing Tournament, which is scheduled for Tidioute on October 9 and 10.

The firemen are currently looking for items for their sale. Any person wishing to donate goods to be auctioned can contact any member of the fire department or call Paul L. Thomas, fire chief.

PREHISTORIC GIRLS

Not quite that old are these sixth grade students at Market Street School depicting what home life might have been like during the Stone Age and the Ice Age, before man discovered fire. From left to right are: Jill Kinney, Mary Tranter, Trudy Condo and Cynthia Matie. As part of their social studies classes they have evolved a program based on a television spot news program "With Our Man In..." and designed the scenery, made the costumes and weapons and other artifacts of the period. BOWS, SPEARS AND AXES

Primitive tools and weapons as might have been used by prehistoric men were fashioned by youngsters in the sixth grade, Market Street School as part of their social studies classes.
